	122.2 Total Stock Points~Approximately 53 options points which equates to $53,000 on 10 contracts.

Think about the results for a minute. Results above are only for three months! So if you traded and had similar results for the whole year that could equate to 488 points off the stock annualized. For options points that could equate roughly to 212 options points which would equate to $212,000 on 10 contracts or $21,200 on one contract.– Not bad for some spare time effort.

We focused on Google since we like trading the strategy with Google and through three months strategy was able to produce approximately 53 options points and 122 stock points. Now only three months! If the strategy continues to perform the rest of the year look out! You'll see that you have a really good opportunity to pick up an excellent trading strategy that you can use for your options micro swing trading. Don't forget you can use short-term weekly options to improve your leverage as well since these micro swings do not last long.
