U.S. Government Required Disclaimer #2- “CFTC RULE 4.41: HYPOTHETICAL OR SIMULATED PERFORMANCE RESULTS HAVE CERTAIN LIMITATIONS. UNLIKE AN ACTUAL PERFORMANCE RECORD, SIMULATED RESULTS DO NOT REPRESENT ACTUAL TRADING. ALSO, SINCE THE TRADES HAVE NOT BEEN EXECUTED, THE RESULTS MAY HAVE UNDER-OR-OVER COMPENSATED FOR THE IMPACT, IF ANY, OF CERTAIN MARKET FACTORS, SUCH AS LACK OF LIQUIDITY. SIMULATED TRADING PROGRAMS IN GENERAL ARE ALSO SUBJECT TO THE FACT THAT THEY ARE DESIGNED WITH THE BENEFIT OF HINDSIGHT. NO REPRESENTATION IS BEING MADE THAT ANY ACCOUNT WILL OR IS LIKELY TO ACHIEVE PROFIT OR LOSSES SIMILAR TO THOSE SHOWN.”

Be warned...

You could lose all of your money and more if using margin using our products. Be warned that although a trading system maybe good: A. it may go bad and go through a period of poor performance (and that often happens after a period of strong performance). B. You may not learn the system correctly and may be executing the system incorrectly C. You may have learned the system well but are simply poorly executing the system, breaking rules, lacking discipline, mixing rules with another system, breaking money management rules etc...

You must trade only with money you are willing to lose. IF you lost all of your trading account will it affect your lifestyle? Will losing affect your family? Additionally, losing in trading can be very stressful causing you to act, react in negative ways.

Trading a good system can be simple, but it's never easy. It will take much practice and discipline to follow. Trading tends to induce strong emotions. Emotions cause mistakes. Emotional trading is up to 99% incorrect in nature.

Newsletter Only: This Website is a publisher of a trading educational newsletter. Historical trade records, trade listings and statistics are not guarantees or indications of future performance. As stated in the government disclaimer above there is always risk in the financial markets. But reward usually does not come without risk. The key is to make intelligent risk, to know what you're risking and to define your exit before your entry — and for that matter to find your risk before your entry.

Sometimes in the markets even your predetermined risk may not be valid due to rash, unexpected events that can drastically change a stock's price. So you are warned that overnight news in stocks, especially near earnings season reporting time can create large overnight moves and these moves can go in your favor, which is great, or they can go drastically against you, which stinks. That is just a risk that you're going to have to accept for being in the stock market, but there is a risk in anything, and in any business.

For your comfort and confidence study stock charts to see the possibilities of such moves, how they usually have been in the direction of the trend, and how frequently they happen over the course of the years in various stocks and you'll find.

The results of the average buyer of our systems is not known since we do not have access to customers trading accounts. We can only mention what they tell us. So we'll assume the average student loses money because:

1. they don't even learn the system
2. they don't practice it if they do
3. they don't paper trade before they start trading with real money
4. they make mistakes unintentionally
5. they make mistakes intentionally due to emotions or lack of discipline or ego
6. they pick and choose trades instead of following the system
7. they pick stocks that do not conform well to the system often with a hidden emotional desire to make a system fit every single stock all the time, which is an erroneous way of thinking due to different character of price action between each different stock.
8. they blow money management rules and trade too big
9. they never learned the system well and assumed system rules which are not accurate
10. the markets or their stock changed price behavior character whereas price action is no longer fluid enough
11. they don't take notes and record their mistakes and correct trade actions they take
12. the markets changed, or at least for a time being and performance of the system diminished, for the time being
13. trader is under capitalized
14. trader is bent on finding new ways to lose so they break rules, think negatively and draw trouble to them – among many reasons why a trader could fail with our systems.
